Different types of roofing materials:

The most common roofing materials include:

Asphalt Shingles

These are the most common types of roofing materials. They are relatively affordable and easy to install.

Metal Roofing

These are very durable and can last for years. These are also fire-resistant and can reflect heat, which helps save energy.

Slate Roofing

These are also very durable and can last for centuries. They are also fire-resistant and can withstand heavy rain and snow. These require special installation techniques.

Concrete Tiles

These are very durable and can last for many years. These are fire-resistant and can withstand heavy rain and snow.

Latest Roofing Techniques

There are always new roofing trends emerging. Some of the latest trends include.

Green Roofs

Solar Roofs

Biomimicry Roofs

Green roofs are roofs that are covered with vegetation. Stormwater runoff, and provide insulation.

Solar roofs are roofs that are equipped with solar panels. They can generate electricity and help reduce your energy bills.

These are roofs that are designed to mimic the natural world. They can help improve energy efficiency and reduce the heat island effect.
